OU Regents Plan New Greenhouse From Farm Funds

The University of Omaha Board of Regents has recommended that money derived from the University's farm in Kimball County be used to build a biology greenhouse.

The Regents approved the sale of the 160-acre farm last week. It was acquired in a bequest several years ago, and is now being sold to Fern A. Jones for $5,760.

The Regents had made several unsuccessful attempts to interest oil firms in drilling a well on the property. Producing wells are located on property neighboring the University farm.

The new biology addition will be dubbed the Kimball County Greenhouse, according to the Board of Regents recommendation.

Funds for the greenhouse will total over seven thousand dollars, money accumulated from property income and the sale.

New Instructors

In last Thursday's meeting, the Board also approved the hiring of five new instructors and accepted four resignations.

Omaha U graduate, Mrs. Shirley Adamonis will be an instructor in women's physical education and another OU grad, Mrs. Dorothy Dustin, will be an assistant English instructor.

Three graduate internes were also added to the staff. They are Mrs. Mildred Terry, psychology; Dennis O'Brien, history; and Gilbert B. Kelly, reading.

Resignations were accepted from Mrs. Leslie M. Turner, assistant women's physical education instructor; Nan Carson, part-time history instructor; Charles Sandage, graduate history intern, and Wayne W. Knopf, assistant registrar.

Helmstadter Host For Faculty Tea

C. W. Helmstadter, dean of the College of Applied Arts and Sciences, will be host Sunday at an open house at his home from 4 to 7 p. m.

Faculty members in the College of Applied Arts and Sciences and the Administrative Council will be guests at this annual event.

In addition to Mrs. Helmstadter, hostesses will be Mrs. Bail, Miss Elizabeth Hill, dean of women, and the wives of the deans of all colleges.

The wives of Applied Arts and Science department heads will assist in the dining room.

Official Notices

All students who plan to apply for admission to medical colleges next fall should obtain forms from Dr. D. N. Marquardt, Room 435, Administration Building by October 1st.

The application forms and a $15 examination fee should be submitted at least two weeks before the October 21 test date.

The Gateway erroneously reported last week that the Bootstrap scholarship is given to Bootstrappers.

The scholarship is open to any student who meets the requirements. Applications are due today in the Alumni Office, Room 232, Student Center.

The speech department has extended an invitation to students interested in debate, drama, University Players, Speakeasies, intramural speech contests and Readers' Theater to attend an open house to be held in the Student Center lounge (room 312) Tues., Oct. 3.

Decreased Changes Result of $5 Fee

During the first week of school, the Registrars Office recorded one thousand program changes for both day and night school students. This is a considerable decrease over last year's figure of 1,200 changes in-class schedules.

Miss Alice Smith, registrar, said this decrease is due to the five dollar fee for adding and dropping classes. Last year one dollar was charged for the same service.

The reasons given by students for adding and dropping classes were a conflict between times of courses, no proper prerequisite for a particular course, and a conflict in classes and employment.

Because of the time spent in making these schedule changes, the registrars office has not compiled complete enrollment figures. Last week's approximate report listed 3,450 students attending day school and 4,650 evening students.

A. W. Gordon, president of the board of trustees from 1925-1929. F. E. Borchers, president of the Board of Regents, will represent the past 30 years of the University. V. J. Skutt from Mutual of Omaha will speak for the past regents.

Greetings from the alums will be given by Don Fitch, president of the Alumni Association, Theresa Clark, Fred Gilmore, George Pardee, The Honorable Glenn Cunningham and Senator Roman Hruska.

President Milo Bail will present the faculty and staff. Al Taylor, president of the Student Council, will offer congratulations on behalf of the students.

Free Luncheon

A free barbecue luncheon will be served to all who attend the convocation. There will be serving stations in the area west of the Student Center building.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Daniel E. Sheehan has granted a dispensation from the law of abstinence so that all Catholics attending the Founder's Day Convocation can eat meat at the luncheon.

Distinguished platform guests include representatives from the University trustees, regents, descendants of trustees and regents, emeritus faculty members, alumni board of directors, student council, Omaha Board of Education, District 66 Board of Education, Nebraska Association of Colleges and Universities, and Associated Retailers of Omaha.

Other groups represented are City Council, Douglas County Commissioners, Chamber of Commerce, Governors of Ak-Sar-Ben, Eugene Eppley Foundation, Strategic Air Command, Army Engineers and Nebraska Senators of Omaha.

The Omaha University Open House on Sunday, October 8, will climax the Founder's Day celebration. Families of OU students and residents of Omaha are invited to tour the University buildings and facilities from 2-5 p.m.

Forms Ready for Fulbright Hopefuls

Applications for Fulbright Scholarships may be placed with Dr. George A. Rothrock, Room 301, Administration Building.

Tuition, book allowances, and living and travel expenses for a full year of overseas graduate study are provided by the scholarship.

Applicants must meet the following requirements:

1. United States Citizenship.
2. A Bachelor degree or equivalent by the end of next summer (some exceptions in art and adult education).
3. Age 20 to 25.
4. Language competence in some cases.
5. "B" average with "B" plus in major.

Those uninterested may contact Dr. Rothrock. Closing date for applications is October 15, 1961.

Football fans attending the next Omaha University home game will see a greatly brightened stadium October 28. The stadium will be sporting a fresh coat of paint.

The job was started before the football season opened, Clarence Lefler, head of the building and grounds department, explained, but was discontinued when rains started.

The last brush job was done four years ago. The face-lifting was done in anticipation of record crowds.

Beyond —30—

By Ken Zimmerman

Just like the weather, parking at OU has become a much-discussed subject with little resultant action.

No one who drives to class need be told that the problem has become acute—if not worse.

And now comes word that an addition to the Applied Arts Building will occupy space presently devoted to metered parking stalls. It's going to leave that many more contestants to play musical cars every morning.

Many great minds have huddled in such hallowed halls of learning as the OUamp Room and the Forty-niner, but none have produced anything in the way of a workable solution.

One, often heard last spring, was to pave the football field and sprinkle it liberally with parking meters. The events of the past two Saturdays, of course, have pretty well nixed this idea.

Another, brought up chiefly by upper classmen, would ban all freshmen from bringing their super-charged roadsters to the campus.

This would be great but it would no doubt leave this goodly share of the student body at home. Who ever heard of walking that distance? Or—perish the thought—taking a bus?

At UCLA, so I'm told, they have a toll gate which demands a quarter before you ever set a tire on the campus. Then, once inside, all parking spots are metered. This, naturally, cuts down on the number of students driving, but, it seems to me is a bit rash at this point in the game for this university.

Far more logical, many have said, would be to re-open negotiations to fill in the Elmwood Park ravine and take advantage of this area now serving as a catch-all for dead branches, beer cans and a few dead squirrels.

The tree-lovers (every man to his own passion) screamed loud and long when this suggestion was first made a couple years ago. And they still howl if you dare mention it today.

You can toss an interstate highway across Riverview Park and you can put a freeway down the fairway on the Elmwood Golf Course but don't you dare touch the debris in my ravine.

Such thinking, be it noble or esthetic, is ambiguous. It is typical of the same group which resented the advent of the diesel engine because it lacks the majesty of the old steamers.

We have a problem here which must be met practically and economically—soon.

The talked-of multi-level parking building such as the Brandeis lot downtown is, for the time being, financially out of the question. Present on-campus facilities have been stretched about as far as they can go—and the number of cars continues to increase.

Some progressive thinking is going to be necessary and some sacrifices must be made.

Election Petitions Available Oct. 9

Election petitions for typical freshman and Homecoming Princess may be checked out in the Dean of Students Office on Monday, October 9. The petitions are due on Friday, October 13.

Typical Freshman will be elected on October 18 from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

An all-school election will be held October 25 for Homecoming Princess, class officers, freshmen student council members and one female junior student council member.

Votes will be cast for all elections in the Student Organizations Room on the second floor of the Student Union.

O.U. Bus Girl Escapes Reds

By JO ANN BISHOP

Clara Benko, 23, an American citizen since birth, got her first glimpse of the United States two months ago.

The grey-eyed blonde, who now buses dishes in the Omaha University cafeteria, is now striving to improve her ability to speak English so she can apply her trade as a bookkeeper.

She made her "escape" which wasn't really an escape, from Budapest, Hungary one evening last spring when she and a "friend" just got in a car and drove out of the country.

Why should an American citizen have to escape to a country which is hers from a country which isn't hers?

"The story is long," she said in English which is hers by birth-right but comes only after deep concentration.

Pieced together, the "long story" goes like this:

Her mother came to Budapest about 1930 with a visa good for five years. She then married but when the five years were up the government wouldn't issue a passport to Mr. Benko, who is now dead, or Clara's sister; only to Mrs. Benko. So Mrs. Benko elected to stay there.

After World War II the communist government occupied the country and any ideas the Benko family had of leaving the country as a group became completely impossible.

"My sister and I would not give up our American citizenship; for any reason . . ." she declared.

This refusal to conform to the wishes of that government created problems for the two girls.

"We both had a very difficult time finding jobs although there were jobs to be had," Clara said.

Trips to various governmental agencies were made periodically in the ensuing years to get permission to speak to the American Consulate in Budapest.

The permission never came.

"We wanted always to come out but they (the Budapest government) would never let us," she said. "I finally left alone."

When she and her friend "got in the car and went," they ended up in Austria where they separated. She then made her way to Vienna.

Without bothering with governmental red tape or permission, Clara contacted the American Consulate in Vienna. From then on the sailing was smoother.

After a two month stay in Vienna while her passport was being prepared she was granted a travel expense loan by the American government.

"I must pay the money back. I hope to get to my job of book-keeping soon so I can do this," she explained.

What happened to the "friend" with whom she left Budapest?

Clara was deliberately evasive and finally explained that retaliation from the Communist government could be forthcoming if information of the person's whereabouts was discovered. She refused even to say if the companion was male or female.

A bit cloak-and-dagerrish for mid-westerners? Perhaps.

But the danger of such retaliation to her friends and loved ones still in Hungary is very real to Clara.

As of the latest information, her sister never made it out of Hungary, Clara said.

"She is, I think, fleeing from the police," she added.

The Reverend Milous Repka, Pastor of the Bohemian Brethren Presbyterian Church in Omaha invited Clara to stay with him and his family when he learned of her plight through a mutual friend.

He is originally from Bohemia which is now under Communist domination.

Two things now occupy the bulk of Clara's spare time.

She is taking language courses at Technical High School and is attempting to meet people her own age.

"I miss very much my friends," she said.

The hope that her mother some day will be able to come to America remains high with Clara.

Mrs. Benko, a newspaper woman before she went to Hungary to visit relatives now works in a Budapest factory.

"Perhaps when she can no longer work they will let her leave," Clara said somewhat sadly.

Indiannes Select 11 New Members

Indiannes selected 11 new members for the 1961-62 school year. These girls are Judy McKenna, Barbara Hill, Pat Weatherly, Marilyn Zagor, Connie Fleming, Sherrie Ulfers, Pat Genge, Gloria Cratty, Judy Probst, Susan Krough, and Margie Uzdawinis.

Midge Butters is again leader of the marching group, assisted by Alma Burzdzius.

Indiannes' first performance was Sept. 16 at the O.U.-Morningside game. Tomorrow morning they will march in the Band Day parade and perform their routines for the afternoon football game.

Charm bracelets were presented as two-year service awards to the following girls: Carolyn Curry, Cynthia Evahn, Alma Burzdzius, Louise Welsted, Connie Conway, Linda Sorenson, Betty Howard, Karen Boylan, Midge Butters, and Pat Van Voorhis.

Woods to Preside At State Meeting

Dr. Donald Z. Woods, Dean of the College of Adult Education at Omaha University, will preside at the general sessions of the Adult Education Association of Nebraska.

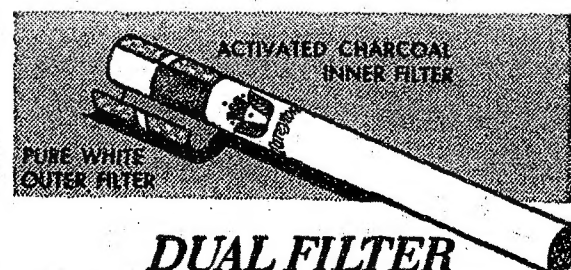

The conferences will be held in the new William Kellogg Center for Continuing Education at the University of Nebraska.

The professional education of teachers was introduced as a function of the University of Omaha in 1911.

Art Dept. Finally Ready for All Classes

By Judy Sebron

OU's Art Department has had some changes during the past summer. All art classes are located on campus whereas before some were held at the Joslyn Art Center downtown.

Classes in ceramics, sculpture and jewelry, under the instruction of Ken Nehmer, are being held in the White House just behind the Administration Building. New sets of sculpture tools, wood carving tools, stone chisels, plaster tools, clay tools and wax tools are now in use.

"Something we have never done in ceramics before is mix our own clays," Mr. Nehmer stated.

"All the mixing is done in class. Students formulate and compound their own glazes which are used for coloring the projects," he added.

Many formulas for glazes are obtained by student experimentation. Formula charts are kept on which pieces of clay with a particular glaze on each are set up. From the main mixture used for glaze, called the mother batch, 19 different colors can be made. This glaze is applied to the articles with brushes or spraying or dipping methods.

The kiln used in baking the clay is located in the new Women's Quonset just behind the White House. It is in a small cement block building set apart from the main part of the WQ and is the same one used at Joslyn previously. It is an all-gas unit, and students take turns in operating it.

The basic process of making pottery begins with the mixture of clay called "greenware." After the first baking, the clay is then referred to as "bisque." The glaze is applied and one more baking is required before the object is completed.

Clay, wood, stone, marble, plaster, wire, wax casting and various welding metals are used in sculpture.

Jewelry classes use copper, sterling silver and such rare woods as ebony in making their projects. Often metals are combined with wood also.

There are two polishing machines for the students to use. One unique part of this class is mounting stones.

"The best feature of this building, I feel, is the lighting," remarked Mr. Nehmer. "In fact, I would say that it is the best lit building on campus."

Approximately one-half of the students enrolled in his day and evening classes are art majors.

Student Directory Planned for Nov.

The Student Directory will be available to Omaha University day students by Thanksgiving.

The format will be the same as last year's with the personnel listings in the front and students' names, addresses and telephone numbers in the back.

Robert McGranahan, head of General Printing and Information, said that it has been a slow process of compiling lists because of late registrations and drop-outs. Names and addresses are taken from registration cards.

He also said that if the information in the directory is incomplete it's the student's own fault because of illegible writing on registration cards.

Science Group Holds Coffee Hour

About 90 students and faculty members attended the National Science Foundation coffee hour in the Student Center last Monday.

Dean Donarid Z. Woods of the College of Adult Education welcomed the group.

Professors from the Science Department spoke on "The Role Each College Plays in the Graduate Program."

The students in the National Science Program are high school teachers doing graduate work in the science fields.

The National Science Foundation received a government grant to pay teachers tuition, books and travel expenses.

This program's purpose is to aid teachers and research personnel in learning the latest changes and new discoveries in the science fields.

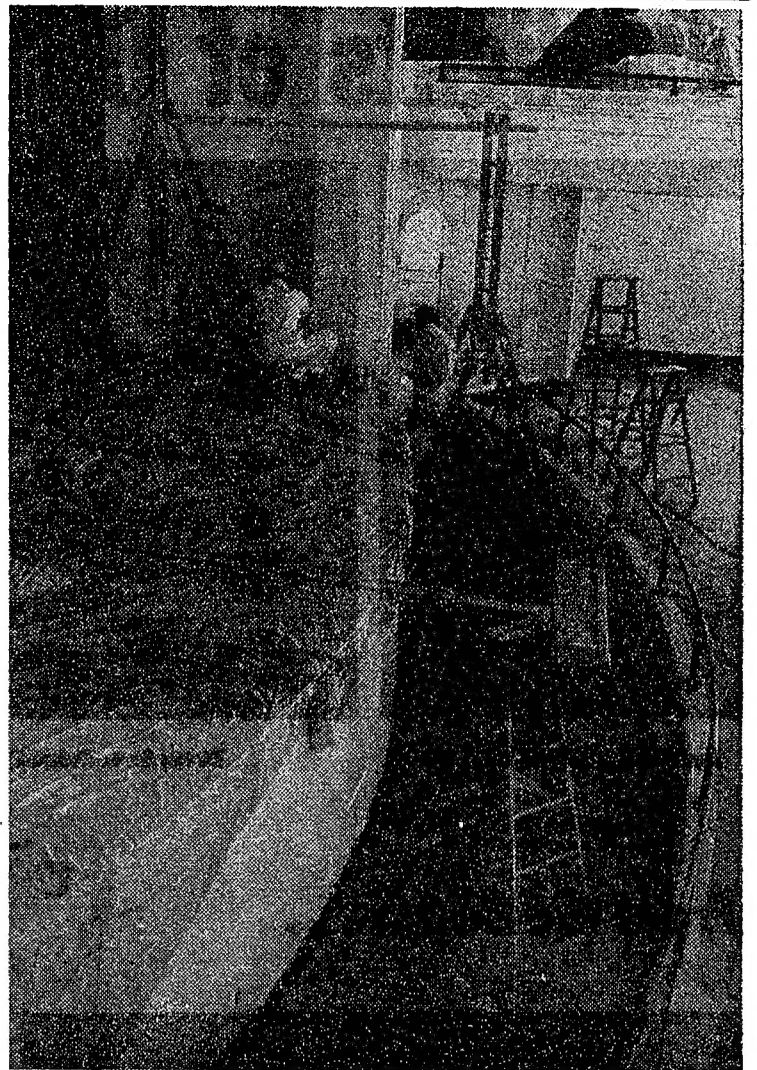

Courses of study are botany, zoology, physics, chemistry and mathematics.

The regular staff members of the O. U.'s Science Department are in charge of the program and instruction of the courses.

Prof. Paul L. Beck Gets Doctorate

Paul L. Beck, assistant professor of history, received his doctorate last summer from the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Beck received his bachelor of arts degree in history and government from the University of Omaha in 1943. He then earned his master of arts degree from the University of Chicago in 1949. Dr. Beck joined the faculty of OU in 1949.

Workman apply finishing touches to the Omaha University Theater. The pit around the stage will house the orchestra.

O.U. Theater Gets Extensive Face-lift

By Mike Dugan

The "Two Faces of the Theatre," Comedy and Tragedy, will shine even more brightly on Omaha University theater-goers this fall as finishing touches are put on the remodeled theater on the first floor of the Administration building.

The 70 thousand dollar renovating task is expected to be finished by October 15.

As though the normal problems which go with any task such as this weren't enough, Hurricane Esther added a touch which delayed the completion of the job.

Upholstery for the seats to be used in the theater was to be made on the east coast and delivered last week.

But as the capricious wind played touch and go all the way up the coastline many businessmen, with all-too-fresh thoughts of the devastation caused by Hurricane Carla a few weeks earlier still fresh in their minds, were forced to suspend business and prepare for the imminent onslaught.

The winds never reached destructive proportions but the businesses closed anyhow—including the one making the seat material.

"But it's all straightened out now; we'll be ready to open on schedule—barring more complication," Dr. Edwin Clark, University Theater director, assured.

Practically nothing was left unchanged but the physical dimensions of the old auditorium.

"We are even getting dressing rooms," Dr. Clark pointed out with pride. He explained that the lack of such facilities in the past has caused problems.

"But no more."

The "his-and-her" dressing rooms will be separated by a lounge where the waiting thespians can relax before going on stage.

A sunken orchestra pit spanning the entire width of the stage, and capable of housing a very large group of musicians, evoked special comment from Dr. Clark.

"In the past the orchestra was located in front and almost on the same level as the actors. This almost forced them to compete with the musicians to be heard," he said.

The new facilities, Dr. Clark explained, will direct the music toward the ceiling and filter it back while the actors will be projecting their lines straight out to the audience.

"An improvement, to say the least," he added.

Another feature which will contribute to a smoother production is a new control booth located directly over the front-entrance to the theater.

It will house the lighting system and the prompters, and will include sliding glass doors. This will make rehearsals a simpler matter by putting the men in control of lighting in an easier position to communicate with those on the stage and eliminate some of the problems of coordinating the two units.

Aside from the improvements in the technical end of the production, the theater itself will have features to make it comparable to any other "play plant" in this area, all of the people involved in the project agree.

The major improvement will be staggered seating on properly elevated floor space.

And a carefully planned color scheme of cherry damask stage contrasted with off-white theater walls will complete an eye-pleasing picture.

The fall theater schedule will consist of three plays.

"We haven't decided for sure which plays we'll do yet but we have enough of an idea so that we can begin auditioning for parts," Dr. Clark said.

The new facilities were expected to cause a more than ample turn out of students to read for parts in the coming plays.

Group Will Visit Omaha U's Farm

Biology Club will meet Oct. 5 to discuss the agenda for this semester. Anyone interested is invited to room 344 in the Administration Building at 3:30 p. m.

An excursion to the University's farm, Glen Haven, will take place Oct. 8.

Music Club Drops Name

Kappa Lambda Mu, women's honorary music club, has revealed its intention to become internationally affiliated with Delta Omicron.

The installation of the new chapter will take place on October 22, according to Sandy Staub, president of the organization.

At this time the name Kappa Lambda Mu will be dropped and the club will be known as Delta Omicron.

Kappa Lambda Mu has been in existence on the OU campus as a local group since 1957. Open to music majors and minors and any musically-inclined freshmen. The club now has 11 charter and 14 active members.

Newly-elected officers for this year are Sandy Staub, president; Nancy Lindell, vice-president; Gayle Hash, secretary; Barbara Strubie, treasurer; Lynda Summers, directress of music; Jan Moravec and Mary Beth Moulton, publicity.

New Members for Alpha Lambda Delta

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary pledged five new members at a meeting Tuesday. The girls must achieve a 3.5 cumulative average their freshman year in order to be eligible.

The girls are: Frieda Cohen, Sue Weidenhammer, Mary Beth Taylor, Lynda Summers, and Barbara Vaughn.

ISA to Hold Annual Drive

Independent Students Association is looking for new members. The group is open to all unaffiliated University men and women.

Anyone interested in joining may sign up between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

To climax the membership drive I.S.A. will sponsor a party at Elmwood Park Pavilion Oct. 6.

Late rush will be Wednesday Oct. 4. Any rushee interested in signing the preference lists must sign in Dean Curt Seimers office between 9 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. He must be accompanied by a member of the fraternity he wishes to pledge and one of its officers.

Programs Planned For Next Meeting

"Early Church Councils, Heresies" will be the program for the Oct. 1 meeting of the Canterbury Club. Rev. Charles E. Davis will speak.

The members will meet at 6:30 p.m. for Sung Evensong at the Trinity Cathedral. The club is open to all Episcopalians at the University.

All student cars must be registered in the office of the Dean of Student Personnel (Adm 240) and carry a University of Omaha permit for each new academic year.

Greeks to Hold Sing at Tietz's

Competitive and group singing will be featured tonight at the Sig Ep Sing held in Tietz's Barn. The sing begins at 7:30 p.m.

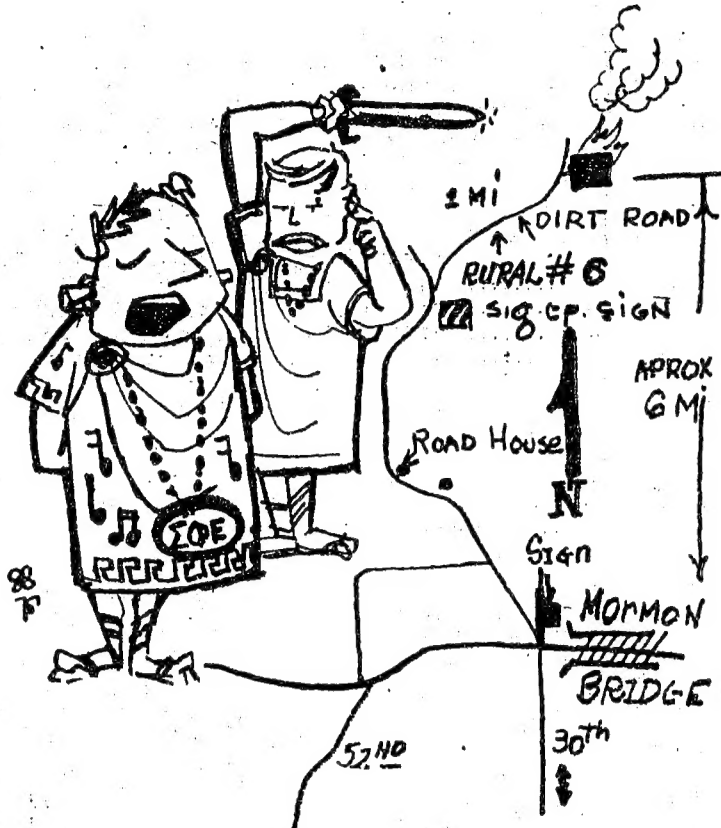

The annual event, sponsored by Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, is traditionally the first all-Greek activity on the Omaha University campus.

"Charmaine" will be the competition song for the fraternities while the sororities will vie for first place with "Good Night My Someone." First place winners in each division will receive a trophy while second and third place winners will be given ribbons. Each group will also sing a fraternity or sorority song of their own choosing.

Sponsors and judges are Captain and Mrs. Joseph Davis, Dean Elizabeth Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Malik, Dean and Mrs. Donald Pflasterer and Dean and Mrs. Kurt Seimers. All fraternity and sorority sponsors are invited to attend. Members of Alpha Epsilon Pi are also welcome.

Hosts will be Ed Pechar and Max Voight. Cider and donuts will be served while the judges are arriving at their decision.

The above map shows the way to Tietz's Barn where you can hear the Greeks murder music!

Officers Elected, Speaker Planned

Jim Gammon was elected president of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Other officers are Dave Harb, vice president; Sue West, secretary; and Charon Allen, treasurer.

Donald Fjellin of the Omaha Chamber of Commerce will be the guest speaker at an Oct. 5 meeting. The meeting will be held at 10:45 a.m. in room 312a of the Applied Arts.

All students interested in joining are invited.

Feathers Get Added Spunk

Feathers held a membership drive in the Student Center Sept. 22-27.

Any girl attending Omaha University is eligible to join Feathers. The membership fee is $1 for one year.

Club meetings will be announced through Physical Education classes and memorandums on the bulletin board in the Student Center. Anyone wishing to join may do so by signing up at any of the meetings.

The club officers are: President, Gail Oberg; Secretary, Colleen Richmond; and Treasurer, Earlene Timm.

Another membership drive is being contemplated for the beginning of the basketball season. "This campaign," said Miss Oberg, "will be held for girls who can't attend the Saturday afternoon football games but are able to go to evening basketball games."

As well as being out in full force at all home football games, the Feathers take part in the pep rallies as an organized cheering body.

Theta Chi Will Remain on Pro

Theta Chi fraternity will remain on indefinite social probation according to Dean Curt Seimers.

The group will not be issued Greek cards nor will they be allowed to participate in any social functions. They were unable to take a pledge class during formal rush and will also be unable to take pledges during late rush.

Former pledges may be repledged and activated. The chapter now has between 20 and 25 members.

This action was a result of a party held in Council Bluffs last April 29.

Angels Presented Revised System

Angel's Flight, Arnold Air Society's honorary for Omaha University coeds, held its first meeting of the fall semester Wednesday.

The new merit system for rank was presented and general plans were discussed for the coming year. Captain and Mrs. Joseph Davis will serve as organization sponsors.

Undefeated Indians Try for Third Grid Win Tomorrow

Undefeated Omaha University goes after its third win tomorrow following a 27-6 win over Colorado State College last Saturday. The Indians meet Colorado Mines at Golden in a night game.

Roger Sayers, in propelling the Indians to their second straight win, upped his season touchdown total to five. Sayers scored two of his TD's on runs of 89 and 38 yards. The speedy Sayers took in a Carl Meyers' pass for his third score in the game.

On Radio

The OU-Mines contest will begin at 9 p. m. Omaha time and will be aired on radio KBON.

The broadcast will be live from Golden beginning at 8:50 p. m.

The squad left by bus at 7:30 this morning for the Mines encounter and will arrive home Sunday.

While the Omahans have been enjoying two wins, the Orediggers have been taking their lumps losing to Highlands, New Mexico, 12-0 and then to Idaho State, 50-6.

Win Streak

A victory tomorrow would give the Indians their first three-game win streak since they did it twice during the 1956 season.

Through the first two games the rugged OU defense has held opponents to 172 net yards rushing. The pass defense has allowed 21 completions in 44 tries for 290 yards and two TD's, the only scores by the opposition in the two games.

Grid Films Shown In Student Center

Omaha U students won't have to miss Indian football action this year because of away games. All OU games, both home and away are being filmed for viewing by the student body and study by the team.

Each Saturday's game will be shown free on the following Wednesday in room 313 of the Student Center at 12:30.

One of the coaches will be on hand every week to narrate the films. Showing will take about 45 minutes so that students can make their 1:30 classes.

Rifle Club Meets

The Girl's Rifle Club will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 3rd at 7 p.m. in the West Quonset. No skill in the art of shooting is required to join the Club.

All interested girls are urged to attend this first meeting of the year.

Coed Swim Club Plans First Meeting

The Omaha University co-ed swim club, the Water Sports Club, will hold its first meeting of the year at the Jewish Community Center from 7 to 8:30 p. m. on Saturday, October 7th.

The Club, sponsored by Joni Jorgensen, urges all water enthusiasts, with or without the ability to swim, to come and join the activities offered.

College students are citizens too. The United Community Service Campaign is a community responsibility.

Orchesis Tryouts Set for October

Orchesis, the Omaha University dance honorary for men and women, will hold its try outs on Tuesday, October 10th at 5:00 in the West Quonset.

All interested students are urged to attend the two pre-try out sessions scheduled for Tuesday and Thursday, October 3rd and 5th.

Orchesis has been an outlet for creative movement on the Omaha University campus for several years and offers opportunity in modern dance, jazz, dance drama, character dance, and pantomime.

Gridders Use New Numbering System

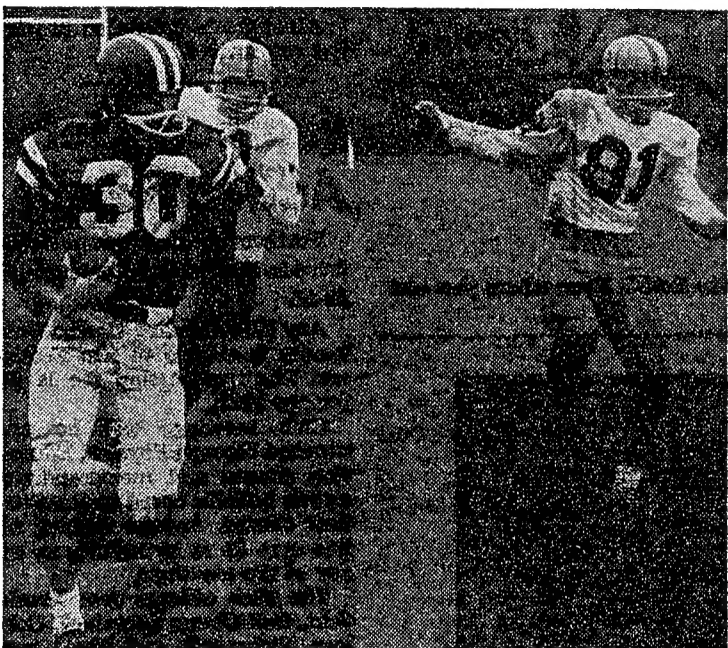

The numbering system used this year by Omaha University's gridders may be confusing to some of the "old" fans.

The numbers have been changed in compliance to an NAIA rule that says all eligible pass receivers, who are the backs and ends, will have numbers less than 60. OU just switched to the new system because most of its games are played under NAIA rules, said Al Caniglia.

The new rule makes it easier for officials to pick out eligible receivers.

The old system had backs wearing numbers less than 50. The ends had numbers between 80 and 89.

Quarterback Meyers sees daylight here but runs into trouble latter in last week's contest against Colorado College.

Harriers Face South Dakota in Opener Today

Omaha University's cross country squad will open against South Dakota University this afternoon at 4 p. m. on the Indian course.

Coach Ernie Gorr has named five harriers to run in the meet. A sixth entry will be named before starting time.

The five named are veterans Gene Somer, Nick Dixon, Dick Burrows, John Hofschire and Terry Maldes.

Newcomers

The sixth will probably be picked from newcomers Harry Heffernan, Arnold Brunzlick, Herb Rhodes, Larry Drum and Noel Nevins.

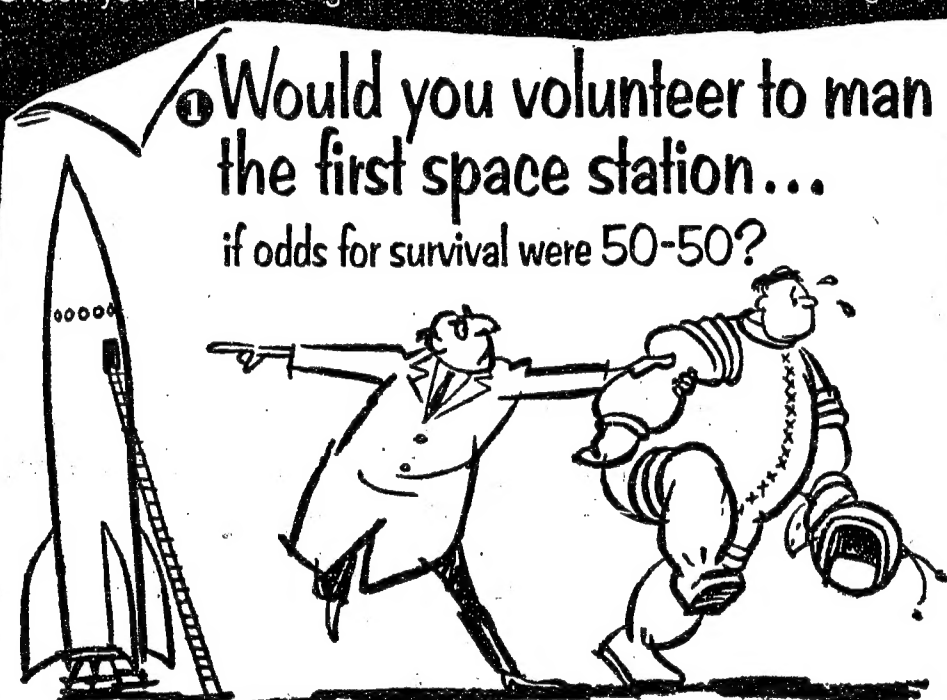

The Midwest AAU meet, Central Intercollegiate Conference meet and the NAIA championships will be held on the Omaha course this season.

Meets will run through Nov. 25, mostly over three and four mile courses.

The six-meet schedule

Sept. 29, South Dakota; Oct. 7, Doane; 10, Simpson; 14, Emporia; 21, at Nebr. Wesleyan; 24, at Wayne; Nov. 3, Midwest AAU; 10, district NAIA at Lincoln; 18, CIC; 25, National NAIA.

Indian Signal Callers— Add Punch to Indian Football Fortunes

The sudden rise of Omaha University from a meek band of Indians to a ravaging war party can be partly attributed to the presence of five capable quarterbacks listed on the OU roster.

Listed among the candidates are one junior, two sophomores and two freshmen.

The number one signal called thus far has been Carl Meyers, a transfer from Wyoming. He played spring ball here last semester.

Meyers . . . passer.

Next Papoose Game Scheduled at Midland

Last week Omaha University's Papoose gridders kept pace with their varsity counterparts in defeating Wayne's reserves 27-13.

The next Papoose encounter will be played at Midland Oct. 16.

The Papooses were lead in the Wayne contest by two freshmen, quarterback Joe Benson and halfback Ed Stanek.

Yesterday the Papooses played host to Midland's "B" squad here on Campus.

Prep Star
Carl is a former Creighton Prep star and represented Prep in the Nebraska Shrine Bowl game in August of 1959 and he was selected as the most valuable player in that contest.

The 20-year-old sophomore joined the maried ranks in August when he married Sherri Payne, sister of OU's George Payne.

George and Carl were teammates at Prep.

Pass-Master
Meyers, the pass-master of the OU squad, has completed 10 passes for 179 yards in the first two games this season.

He has proven to be an all-around player too, intercepting one pass and scoring once in the opener against Morningside.

The veteran among the signal callers is Dave Gibson, a valuable replacement for Sophomore Meyers.

Leading Passer
The Illinois product was the Central Intercollegiate Conference's leading passer his freshman year, completing 36 aeriels for 508 yards.

Upon graduation from Hillsboro High in Illinois he followed Head Coach Al Caniglia to the OU campus.

Another letterman quarterback is Kenny Allen, a Sophomore, who has been sidelined much this season with a knee injury suffered in preseason workouts.

Defensive Performer
The left-hander saw action mostly as a defensive performer last season.

Rounding out the signal calling corps are two freshmen, Bob Agnew and Joe Benson who have been engineering the Papoose squad in the two games they have played.

The two are both out-of-state performers. Agnew hails from Columbus, Ohio, and Benson is from Paducah, Kentucky.

The 18-year-old Benson won All America honors at this high school.

Grid Coach Caniglia Lauds Hard Work Done by Hunter

By Roger Brown

What is probably one of the most important jobs in connection with athletics at Omaha University is held by team trainer Jerry Hunter, according to grid coach Al Caniglia.

Jerry actually has two jobs in connection with being trainer. First is that of prevention of injuries such as pre-game taping, ankle wrapping etc. Secondly is that of speeding the recovery of players injured in a game or practice so they will be back in action as soon as possible.

Upon graduation from Central High School in 1954, Jerry entered the Navy but was discharged after eight weeks because of bad eyes.

Three Sport Letterman
A three sport letterman at Central High he enrolled at OU in 1955 where he ran the mile and cross country and earned two Papoose letters.

An eye disease known as Glaucoma finally forced Jerry to quit athletics and after six operations in eight years blindness to his right eye finally resulted.

"Hunter the horse doctor" as he is called by the athletes is a PE Major with a minor in speech. He hopes to graduate this June with a masters degree in secondary education.

Jerry Praised
Coach Al Caniglia said "that Jerry does a real fine job and that we are fortunate to have him with us." He added that "his contribution is measurable in keeping the boys morale up as well as attending to their injuries."

Jerry, who is one of the first to arrive on campus and usually one of the last to leave receives a salary plus tuition for being trainer.

Jerry, who is a past president of the PE Majors organization, is 25 years old, married has no children and lives at 4814 Webster Street. He plans to get a coaching job after his graduation in June.

All Grid Games On KBON Radio

For the first time in Omaha University football history, the Indians' games are being broadcast live by KBON, a local radio station.

Frank Scott, news director at KBON, was responsible for getting the games on the air. Fritz, KBON's sport director, and Scott do the play-by-play coverage at all home games beginning at 1:50 p. m. with a pre-game warm-up.

Currently, away-games are being covered by professionals hired by KBON.

There is a possibility that Fritz and Scott will cover the action in future games being played on the road.

So far, no decision has been made on broadcasting the Indian's home games.

In Intramurals— Four-Mile Team Race on Oct. 27

The intramural four-mile team race will be run off Friday October 27, on the University track at 4 p.m.

Entries for this should be in the intramural office Room 340, of the Administration Building no later than Friday, October 20.

In this event each entry will have four runners. Each man will run one mile.

Home Ec Party Set

Home Economics Club invites all girls interested in joining the organization to the annual membership tea October 4.

The affair will be held in Room 101 from 3-4:30 p. m.

'Crisis of 60's' Is World Affairs Theme

"Crisis and Challenge in the '60s" will be the theme of the 16th annual Institute of World Affairs lectures. The lectures will be held October 11 through November 15 in the University of Omaha Auditorium.

James J. Wadsworth will conduct the first of the six Wednesday lectures. His topic will be "Prospects for Peace." Mr. Wadsworth is president of the Peace Research Institute, and former U.S. Ambassador to the U.N.

Peter Ritner will speak on the "Crisis and Challenge in Africa." Mr. Ritner is the editor of the Macmillan Company and the author of The Death of Africa.

His Excellency Antonio Carrillo-Flores, Ambassador of Mexico to the U.S. and Mexican delegate to the International Economic Conferences, will present a program entitled "Crisis and Challenge in Latin America."

"The Soviet-Chinese Puzzle—

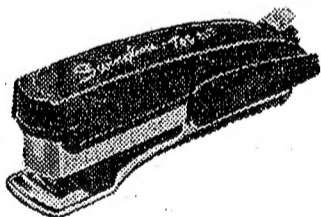

a Fragile Alliance" will be the subject of Dr. Albert Parry. Dr. Parry is professor and chairman of the Department of Russian Studies, Colgate University; the author of Russia's Rockets and Missiles; and visiting consultant and lecturer at the U.S. War College.

William T. Utley, professor and chairman of the Political Science Department, University of Omaha, and director of the Institute of Public Affairs will conclude the series with "Crisis and Challenge in the '60s—in Summation."

The cost of enrollment in the Institute is five dollars. This entitles the enrollee and a guest or his family to attend each lecture. Members of sponsoring groups and University personnel are members of the Institute and are admitted by showing their membership cards. They may bring guests. University students are encouraged to attend and will be admitted by their activity cards.

Buildings Prepared For Power Failure

What are they? Early warning radar units? Study lights for tall students or what?

The newly installed Emergency Lights in the Student Union and the Applied Arts building have been causing some comment.

Because of their appearance, three small lights peering in different directions, on top of an ominous looking gray box, some students have been known to walk down the halls on the far side of them.

The Buildings and Grounds department has revealed that they are just Emergency power units, in case the normal lighting fails.

They are a battery powered unit that come on automatically if normal power fails. They are intended to provide enough light so that people could find their way around the halls.

These lights have already been installed in the Administration Building and the Library. But the old lights are smaller and less noticeable.

Clergy to Probe Social Problems

A "Special Seminar for Clergymen on Urban Problems in the Omaha Metroplex" (metropolitan area) will begin Oct. 2 at Omaha University.

The seminar, sponsored by the College of Adult Education, will feature speakers from the clergy, a city official, a public service worker and college instructors.

According to the program advisory committee, this course has been designed at the request and with the assistance of clergymen in the Omaha Metroplex.

The Advisory Committee "hopes the seminar will answer many questions concerning the dynamic growth of Omaha for those leaders seriously interested in urban problems."

The first of eight talks will be a welcome by President Milo Bail.

Parking Regulations

Parking meters will be in operation from 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

No car can be backed into a parking stall.

Every car must be kept between the lines that are painted on the pavement.

No car can be parked in such a way as to obstruct the flow of traffic.

The speed limit is 15 miles per hour.

No running stop signs.

Every car must have a parking permit.

Fines for overtime parking, speeding, failure to observe stop signs, yield right of way, etc., will be one dollar.

Obstructing traffic five dollars.

People who strike the meter must pay the cost of repairs and also suffer revocation of their parking permit.

Failure to pay fines as assessed, within 48 hours, may result in suspension from the University.

United Community Services Drive

Cheerleaders Carol Morgan and Sandy Monds give the UCS "Little Good Guy" a morale boost . . . but he's really looking for a financial boost.

OU's Cutest Pan, Ugliest Man Drive Set for Mid-October

The time of the "Good Guy" is here again. Through October 26 the United Community Service will hold its annual drive to collect money for its 58 Red Feather and Red Cross agencies.

The Omaha University campaign for the students will be highlighted by the "Cutest Pan and Ugliest Man" contest sponsored by the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity. The campus drive is set for the week of Oct. 16.

Each sorority will select a candidate for cutest pan; each fraternity, for ugliest man. The groups collecting the most money will win the contest. A vote is given for each penny collected.

Last year the total collected in the contest was $864.52, and the winners were Zeta Tau Alpha with $282.98 and Lambda Chi Alpha with $157.97.

The University will also sponsor a campaign for its employees that will work through its payroll department.

This year's UCS goal for the Omaha area is $2,047,427. Some of the agencies benefitting from this drive are the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, the YMCA and YWCA, the Salvation Army, the Christ Child Society, the Open Door Mission, the Camp Fire Girls, and many medical and religious charities.

The UCS drive, which began 11 years ago, is the result of combining many charities into one big drive.

Before 1950 there were two organizations holding large drives, the Welfare Council and the Community Chest. Now there are 58 Red Feather and Red Cross services supported by the combined drive.

20,000 Books Are Bought First Week

Probably the busiest spot on campus during the first week of school was the Omaha University bookstore, as students bought some twenty thousand textbooks and unknown quantities of paper and other supplies.

Bookstore Manager Ben Koenig said the heaviest concentration of buying was in the sciences, particularly math. Koenig bases his buying estimates on an 11-percent increase in enrollment, but the demand for many books this year far exceeded that, leaving many students bookless for the first week or two.

"Our reorders depend on the publishers," Koenig said, "and the pressure on them is terrific because schools all over the country are running short." For the first few days, he said he called and telegraphed publishing houses several times a day. By today though, nearly all shortages have been filled.

Koenig expressed appreciation for the patience students and instructors have shown in waiting for reorders.

To handle the rush, Koenig had to put on three extra full time employees.

The original "Good Guy."

UCS Good Guy Comes to Life

The little "Good Guy," symbol of the United Community Service drive, came to life and made his first appearance at the OU football game on Saturday, September 23.

The Good Guy has been a cartoon symbol for the USC drive for the past several years. He was created by Charels Shultz, the author of the comicstrip, "Peanuts."

This year the mischievous little Good Guy has been brought to life by the Promotion Committee for the 1962 USC campaign.

His "parents" are not saying who the good guy is or where he came from. He does not say anything when he appears, just waves his feather and smiles shyly.

His costume was made by Carolyn Kundel, an OU home economics instructor. His wings and halo were made by Miss Jane Anderson, assistant professor in the art department.

The Good Guy will make appearances on TV and at various Omaha functions.

Select Seven For ROTC Posts

Cadet Major Leonard P. Morrissey, AF-ROTC Administrative Officer, announced the new staff positions.

They are Cadet Colonel James J. Baber, Jr., Group Commander; Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Allen K. Taylor, Deputy Group Commander; Cadet 1st Lieutenant Bruce E. Hatfield, Group Comptroller; Cadet Captain Robert Hohman, Group Operations Officer; Cadet Captain Elvis Nelson, Group Personnel Officer; Cadet Captain Michael Richardson, Assistant Group Personnel Officer; Cadet Captain John Baker, Group Information Services and Group Material Officer.

Lieutenant Colonel Shirl H. Swenson said the enrollment of the entire corps had increased over last years.

Area Commandant Colonel Gordon K. Stallings, personal representative of the United States AF-ROTC head, was on campus Monday and Tuesday for his semi-annual visit.

He discussed problems and ideas which involve all AF-ROTC corps.

Staff Chaplain Lieutenant Colonel William C. Lindley is visiting the University Thursday and today.

He spoke to the cadets about the spiritual and moral aspects of an Air Force Career during his periodical visit.

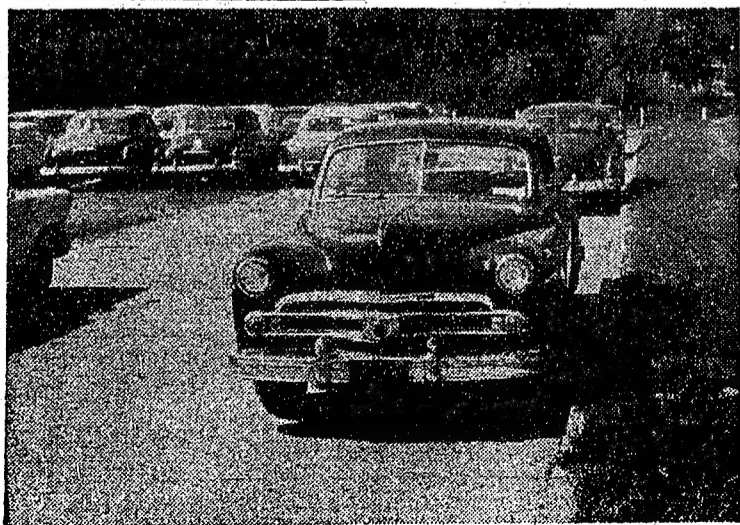

Management Meet Headquarters at OU

Headquarters for the U. S. Interagency Civil Service Management Conference to be held at Omaha University from October 2-6 will be the Eppley Conference Center.

This conference in primarily first level management for federal employees, will meet from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily.

The major address, "The Challenge of the '60s," will be delivered by President Milo Bail.

Other faculty speakers and their addresses include: Dr. Aldrich Paul, "Communication;" Prof. Phil Vogt, "Geriatrics;" Dr. William Jaynes, "Industrial Psychology in Management;" Dr. William Utley, "Government Politics," and Dr. Albino Garbin, "Industrial Sociology."

These cars received tickets for parking in unauthorized spaces. The regulations printed above are violated most often.
